

ANN VANINO

Ann brings a depth of public and private sector experience in the environmental and workforce development areas to our Initiative. Ann's business career includes management positions at the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency in Washington, DC, and New York City's Department of Environmental Protection. As Assistant Commissioner of New York City's Hazardous Materials Emergency Response Team, she oversaw responses to over 600 chemical emergencies a year. Since 1988, Ann has worked in the private sector, including founding Williams & Vanino, Inc. in 1991, where she helped Fortune 500 corporations and government agencies comply with government regulations and manage their environmental programs effectively. In 1997, Ann began coaching full-time. Her current practice involves both career coaching for individuals and working with organizations to develop leadership potential and optimize performance and productivity. From 2005-2007 Ann was involved in a major Foundation Initiative to develop career pathways for out of school youth. Ann is a member of The Business Advisory Council, South Valley Work Source Center, in Palmdale, CA. Since 2005, Ann has been a member of Kela Associates, a national collaboration of consultants and a community of practice for social change. Ann received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Environmental Studies from The State University of New York at Albany and a Masters Degree in Public Administration from New York University.
